Setting up your payment

It is best practice to include the below standard information in payment instructions to avoid potential delays or returns:

Ordering Customer
- Account number
- Full name (no initials)
- Full address
- Street address (avoid P.O. Box numbers)
- City
- State Code
- Postal Code
- Country code (2 characters)

Beneficiary Customer
- Account number
- Include the International Bank Account Number (IBAN) or Clave Bancaria Estandarizada (CLABE), if applicable
- Full name (no initials)
- Full address
- Street address (avoid P.O. Box numbers)
- City
- State Code
- Postal Code
- Country code (2 characters)

Beneficiary Bank
- Full bank name
- Address
- SWIFT BIC

Some countries may also require additional information (i.e., telephone number, purpose of payment, routing codes, etc.). Failing to provide all required information may result in payment delays or returns.

Cross-Border Payment Requirement

Intermediary banks are often used when a payment is made in a currency that is different from the local currency. When making a payment through an intermediary bank, their SWIFT BIC must be included.

Key Terms

International Bank Account Number (IBAN)

The International Bank Account Number, IBAN, is an internationally agreed standard to identify an individual’s account at a financial institution. IBANs should be included for all SEPA payments. SWIFT maintains an IBAN registry (https://www.swift.com/swift-resource/9606/download) that provides details on the IBAN structure. The structure consists of a two-letter ISO country code, followed by two check digits and up to 30 alphanumeric characters for the Basic Bank Account Number (BBAN).

Routing Codes

Some countries require the inclusion of national routing codes to facilitate routing within the country’s payment systems. Examples of countries with routing codes are Australia and Canada.

SWIFT BIC

SWIFT BIC is a bank identifier code for members of the SWIFT network. Please note: If a branch BIC is not known, the full name and address should be used.

Canada’s “Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Act” and related regulations impose an obligation on all Canadian financial institutions, including J.P. Morgan, to obtain certain information for wire payments transmitted in a SWIFT 103/103+ format and SWIFT MT101s that result in the SWIFT MT103 format. In order to comply with these regulatory requirements, J.P. In circumstances where a street number is not assigned to a physical location, a description of the location, such as a building and street name, may be acceptable. A P.O. Box is not acceptable without a full physical address. State or province is also required for all U.S. and Canada addresses and for other countries, where applicable. Some Canadian banks also require the Canadian Clearing Code to avoid delays in processing.

RIB code consists of the 5 digit bank code + 5 digit branch code + 11 digit account number + 2 digit key. IBAN format is accepted but not mandatory.

Beneficiary Bank (SWIFT MT103 F57): Include the SWIFT BIC and the Canadian bank branch routing number, or, where BIC and Routing Code is not provided by the counterparty, the full name, and full physical address of the beneficiary bank as an alternative, although the payment may fall into repair. It is recommended by JPMorgan that the bank’s SWIFT BIC is provided, and, where applicable, the Canadian Clearing Code is provided for CAD payments. Where the SWIFT BIC is not provided, the wire payment may fall into repair.

It is recommended by Payments Canada that the Canadian Clearing Code or routing code be used for payments denominated in CAD. The 9-digit routing number is made up of the Direct Payment Routing Number (4 digits) and the Branch Transit Number (5 digits). The structure is //CC followed by nine digits. Example: //CC123412345.

Where applicable, the beneficiary bank address and/or transit number identifies which internal branch account the main bank should direct the funds to.

SWIFT BIC is 8 or 11 alphanumeric characters: xxxxCAxx or xxxxCAXxxxx.

Wire receipts for credit to a Canadian corporate account need to be received by JPMorgan Toronto in the swift MT103 format due to Canadian regulatory reporting obligations. If they are received in the MT202 format for credit to a corporate-owned account, the wire receipt in the MT202 format will be rejected and will have to be resent by the counterparty in the SWIFT MT103 format.

1FCB means Foreign Correspondent Bank
2Canadian Clearing Code is mandatory for Laurentian Bank, National Bank, Desjardins, CIBC & Meridian Bank, Manulife Bank, State Street Bank

For corporations, payments can be for merchandise, service trade, other current account items (i.e., operating expenses) and approved capital activities.

Account Restrictions: Non-resident companies require approval from the People’s Bank of China (PBOC) for the opening of CNY settlement account in China.

Additional Documentation: Supporting documents are not required for outgoing payments if the payment bank allows document simplification. Local regulatory reporting applies to all cross-border payments.
If requested, the beneficiary must provide the local bank with supporting documentation to validate the underlying transaction and receive credit into the account.

Country Requirements/Restrictions (Off-Shore CNY)
Currency & Clearing Information: The official ISO currency code for payments is CNY. It is used as the official code to denominate payments and accounts. CNH is the informal currency term used in the off-shore markets, and denotes the foreign exchange rate for the renminbi traded in the off-shore markets.

Payment Restrictions: Since the liberalization of the currency, the renminbi can be used globally as a trade settlement currency in off-shore jurisdictions (outside mainland China).

Overview

Information provided by the Beneficiary: Remitter should obtain all required bank information from the Beneficiary (e.g. SWIFT BIC, account number, and beneficiary bank address).

Central Bank: For additional information, please refer to www.cbr.ru.

Regulatory Requirements/Restrictions

Currency & Clearing Information: The Central Bank of Russia coordinates payments and settlements between 70+ regional centers. Payments are currently sent by batch multiple times daily. All batch processed payments in the same region are typically settled by the Central Bank of Russia on a same day basis. Payments to different regions may take up to three business days. All payments in Russian ruble exceeding RUB 100mm need to be routed via the real time gross settlement ("RTGS") clearing system called Banking Electronic Speed Payment System (BESP).

Payment Restrictions: There are no restrictions on the types of payments allowed.

The beneficiary may need to open a passport at the local beneficiary bank for a payment for goods and services or loan repayments allowed.

Account Restrictions: Residents and non-residents are permitted to open and maintain domestic and foreign currency accounts either locally or abroad. Residents must notify the tax authorities of any foreign-maintained accounts.

Additional Documentation: Cross-border payments are settled via correspondent bank accounts and often require supporting documentation. The Russian correspondent bank must receive all documentation before it releases the payment to the beneficiary bank.

Payment Formatting Rules for RUB

Payment instructions must include a wide array of country-specific information in addition to standard remittance information. Please be aware that your RUB payment may be cancelled if you fail to include this information in your payment instructions.

First name, family name, and patronymic name must be included. Use of initials can delay receipt of funds by the beneficiary. Companies must include full name as well as legal ownership (e.g., LLC, JSC).

INN is the taxpayer’s identification code assigned by the Russian Tax authority. The length of this code varies based on the type of beneficiary. If the beneficiary is an individual, this field is optional and consists of 12 digits. If the beneficiary is a Russian legal entity, this field is mandatory and consists of 10 digits. If the beneficiary is a foreign legal entity, this field is mandatory and consists of 5 digits or 10 digits, depending on whether or not the foreign legal entity conducts business in Russia.

The format for the nine-digit BIK and twenty-digit account number should read: /RUXXXXXXXXXXXX.

If there is an intermediary bank in SWIFT MT103 F56A, make sure F57A includes the 20 digit account number of the beneficiary bank as well as the SWIFT BIC. SWIFT BIC is 8 or 11 alphanumeric characters: xxxxRUxxx or xxxxRUxxxx.

Intermediary Bank (SWIFT MT103 Field 56): If an intermediary is being used, include the bank’s SWIFT BIC in SWIFT MT103 F56A. If the intermediary does not have a SWIFT BIC or if the BIC is not available to you, include the intermediary bank’s BIK, name and 20-digit account number.

Reason for Payment (SWIFT MT103 Field 70): Purpose of payment must be clearly identified. The field must always start with V0 and the numeric code of the transaction. The V0 code is the operation code relating to the purpose of the payment. This should be followed by the key details/description of the payment (e.g., contract references). The V0 Code should always be quoted as per the following format: (VOXXXXX). There should be no spaces, dashes, dots, colons or other characters between the «VO» and digits. The V0 Code may be placed in any line of field 72 of MT202’s or field 70 of MT103’s. Include accurate and clear purpose of payment, date of invoice agreement, and NDS (VAT) amount, where applicable. Tax codes are required when making payments to the local Vietnamese tax authorities (or equivalent). These tax codes relate to both the sender (Remitter) and the receiver (Beneficiary). The communication of a tax payment will usually occur between the tax authority and the remitter, and a unique tax code tax identifier number will be generated online for the remitter to use when initiating their payment. This code is needed by the local tax authorities in order to recognize that the payment relates to a specific beneficiary.

VND is a zero decimal currency; payments must be entered as whole.
