GPC is a setting available in some browsers that notifies our websites of a California resident's decision to opt out of the sharing of their personal information for cross-contextual behavioral advertising purposes. You can learn how to enable GPC on your browser here.

Other means of communicating your behavioral advertising preferences include opting out through the cross-industry Self-Regulatory Program for Online Behavioral Advertising managed by the Digital Advertising Alliance (DAA). Please click here and follow the instructions. You can also click on the Advertising Options Icon featured on certain JPMorgan Chase ads on third-party websites. Finally, you may be able to opt out using the privacy settings available through your device operating system (e.g., turning on "Opt out of Ads Personalization" in Android, or switching off "Allow Apps to Request to Track" in iOS).

Please bear in mind that opt outs may be specific to a browser or device. Therefore, you may need to opt out from each browser on each of the devices that you use.
