This 2008 tax guide was prepared in a continuing effort to provide quality service and to keep you informed of any changes in tax reporting. The Consolidated Form 1099-INT-DIV-B-OID will include, if applicable, a separate Form 1099-MISC along with a detailed income statement of both taxable and tax exempt income. Note that Bear Stearns merged with J.P. Morgan in June 2008. Only one Consolidated Form 1099 will be issued for your account covering all 2008 transactions.

Please review all information on your 1099 forms and detailed income statement. While we verify the information reported, reclassification of income by an issuer such as a mutual fund may necessitate a corrected Consolidated Form 1099. Please refer to page 11 for additional details. If you hold mutual funds and/or REIT securities, you may wish to consider this before filing your return. If you have any questions relating to the information reported, or believe there is an error, immediately contact your account executive (AE). In addition, we suggest that you discuss your tax reporting questions with a qualified tax advisor.

In accordance with Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations, all tax information required to be sent to both you and the IRS on the Consolidated Form 1099 was prepared with detailed instructions on the back of page 1, and specific instructions are shown on the front of Form 1099-MISC. Information reported in one category is not duplicated in another. J.P Morgan Clearing Corp. mails a Consolidated Form 1099 to the last known address for each account held in the client's name. If you have received a Consolidated Form 1099 with an account number of 158-00001 through 159-99999, please refer to "Other Types of 1099s & Reportable Income" on page 11.

Only one copy of each form is produced. For additional copies, send us a written request. RETAIN YOUR CONSOLIDATED FORM 1099, FORM 1099-MISC, AND THE DETAILED INCOME STATEMENT FOR YOUR TAX RECORDS.

It is important that you understand all possible implications of the current tax laws. The penalties for incorrect reporting may greatly outweigh the cost of seeking professional advice.

THIS TAX GUIDE IS FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES ONLY AND SHOULD NOT BE CONSTRUED AS TAX ADVICE.

Instructions for Recipient—Miscellaneous Income

Amounts shown may be subject to self-employment (SE) tax. If your net income from self-employment is $400 or more, you must file a return and compute your SE tax on Schedule SE (Form 1040). See Pub. 334, Tax Guide For Small Businesses, for more information. If no income or Social Security and Medicare taxes were withheld and you are still receiving these payments, see Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals.

Individuals must report as explained below. Corporations, fiduciaries, or partnerships report the amounts on the proper line of your tax return. Lines 1 and 2. Report rents from real estate on Schedule E (Form 1040). If you provided significant services to the tenant, sold real estate as a business, or rented personal property as a business, report on Schedule C or C-EZ (Form 1040). For royalties on timber, coal, and iron ore, see Pub. 544, Sale and Other Dispositions of Assets.

Line 3. Generally, report this amount on the "Other Income" line Form 1040 and identify the payment. The amount shown may be payments received as the beneficiary of a deceased employee, prizes, awards, taxable damages, Indian gaming profits, payments from a former employer because you are serving in the Armed Forces or the National Guard, or other taxable income. See Pub. 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income. If it is trade or business income, report this amount on Schedule C, C-EZ, or F (Form 1040).

Line 4. Shows backup withholding or withholding on Indian gaming profits. Generally, a payer must backup withhold at a 28% rate if you did not furnish your taxpayer identification number. See Form W-9, Request for Taxpayer Identification Number and Certification, for more information. Report this amount on your income tax return as tax withheld.

Line 7. Shows nonemployee compensation. If you are in the trade or business of catching fish, box 7 may show cash you received for the sale of fish. If payments in this box are SE income, report this amount on Schedule C, C-EZ, or F (Form 1040), and complete Schedule SE (Form 1040). You received this form instead of Form W-2 because the payer did not consider you an employee and did not withhold income tax or Social Security and Medicare taxes. Contact the payer if you believe this form is incorrect or has been issued in error. If you believe you are an employee and cannot get this form corrected, report the amount from box 7 on Form 1040, line 7, (or Form 1040 NR, line 8). You must also complete and attach to your return Form 8919, Uncollected Social Security and Medicare Tax on Wages.

Line 8. Shows substitute payments in lieu of dividends or tax-exempt interest received by your broker on your behalf as a result of a loan of your securities. Report on the "Other Income" line of Form 1040.

Line 14. Shows gross proceeds paid to an attorney in connection with legal services. Report only the taxable part as income on your return.

In accordance with IRS regulations, if you earned miscellaneous income, you will receive a separate Form 1099-MISC. If not, your Consolidated Form 1099 will indicate "NO REPORTABLE 2008 FORM 1099-MISC INCOME."

- Line 1. Report rents from real estate on Schedule E (Form 1040). If you provided significant services to the tenant, sold real estate as a business, or rented personal property as a business, report on Schedule C or C-EZ (Form 1040).
- Income from royalty trust payments has been reported if you own a certificate or unit of beneficial interest in a royalty trust and you have not been issued a Schedule K-1.
 - Other income may include prizes, awards (not for services rendered), punitive and other taxable damages paid over $600.00 (e.g., contract fees).

- Federal income tax withheld, either by IRS mandate or if you have not provided certification of your tax TIN. Include this amount on your income tax return as tax withheld.
- May include fees, commissions, prizes and awards for services rendered.
- Payment in lieu of (a) tax-exempt interest to the extent that interest (including OID) has accrued while a short sale was open, and (b) a dividend, if the ex-dividend date is after the transfer of stock for use in a short sale, but before the closing of the short sale. Payments in lieu of interest and dividends are required to be reported on Form 1099-MISC for certain accounts, including corporate accounts.
- Shows gross proceeds paid to an attorney in connection with legal services. Report only the taxable part as income on your return.

You may or may not be eligible to take the entire amount shown in line 6 as a foreign tax credit.

What interest income is reported?

The interest income reported on Form 1099-INT includes interest paid from corporate bonds, federal agency bonds, credit balances, commercial paper, tax-exempt dividends, taxable and tax-exempt municipal bonds. The rebate fee earned on short security positions in your account will be included on line 1. Municipal bond interest is generally not taxable if it relates to a debt obligation issued by the state or locality. However, some municipal bond interest may be taxable for federal tax purposes. Municipal bonds issued after August 7, 1986 may be subject to the alternative minimum tax. As required by recent tax law changes, when available, J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp. reports AMT income on Form 1099-INT, line 9. J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp. tracks the purchase price of short-term (less than one year) instruments (on line 1) and US Treasury bills (on line 3), and calculates the accurate short-term OID amount. However, if the securities are not redeemed from the account in which they were originally purchased, J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp. defers to IRS Publication 1212. Therefore, the amount reported may require an adjustment upon preparing your tax return.

Why do the December statement and 1099-INT totals differ?

Interest relating to REMICs, FASITs and CMOs is not included on the original Form 1099; instead it will be recalculated on an accrual basis and reported on a corrected Form 1099 no later than March 16, 2009. Interest income from these obligations is reported on Form 1099-OID and/or Form 1099-INT, line 1. These obligations are not treated as US Treasuries for federal and state income tax purposes because the underlying obligations (i.e., mortgages) are not issued by the US government. Some MIDS, QUIDS, etc. are subordinated debt securities paying deferrable interest on a monthly or quarterly basis, and are actually OID instruments. An interest payment previously shown on a monthly statement is recalculated on an accrual basis and reported on Form 1099-OID. The interest payment will continue to accrue income for US federal income tax purposes even though interest may not be paid on a current basis.

How is accrued interest reported?

Accrued interest earned on the sale of bonds is reported as interest income on the settlement date. Accrued interest paid by you on bond purchases is included on the detailed income statement as "short accrued interest." It is not deducted by J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp. from the reportable interest income total. Accordingly, you should subtract the accrued interest paid on the purchase of a bond from the amount reported on Form 1099-INT. Both of these amounts should be listed separately on Form 1040, Schedule B.

If you did not receive reportable interest income in 2008, "NO REPORTABLE 2008 FORM 1099-INT INCOME" will appear on your 1099.

- 2a. Total capital gain distributions (long term) from a regulated investment company (RIC) or real estate investment trust (REIT). Report the amount shown on line 2a on line 13 of Schedule D (Form 1040). However, if no amount is shown on lines 2c-2d and your only capital gains and losses are capital gain distributions, you may be able to report the amount shown on line 2a on line 13 of Form 1040 (line 10 of Form 1040A), rather than Schedule D. You must reduce your cost (or other basis) by this amount for calculating gain or loss when you sell your stock. But if you receive all your cost (or other basis), you must report future nontaxable distributions as capital gains, even though this form shows them as nontaxable. For more information, see Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses.
- 4. Federal income tax withheld (TEFRA) and remitted to the IRS, either by IRS mandate or if you have not provided certification of your tax TIN. Include this amount on your income tax return as tax withheld.

- 5. The stockholder's pro rata share of certain amounts deductible by a nonpublicly offered RIC (generally a nonpublicly offered mutual fund) in computing its taxable income. If you file Form 1040, you may deduct these expenses on the "Other expenses" line on Schedule A (Form 1040), subject to the 2% limit. This amount is included in line 1a.
- 6. All money withheld by foreign governments at the time of distribution. The gross amount of the distribution and the amount of the withholding is reflected on your monthly statement, followed by the notation "foreign taxes paid." You can determine the foreign country to which taxes were paid by referring to the prospectus for the specific security or by contacting your AE. You may be able to claim the foreign tax as a deduction or a credit on Form 1040.
- 8. Cash amount distributed as a partial liquidating payment.
- 9. The fair market value (noncash) of stock on the date of distribution.

What dividend income is reported?

The 1099-DIV section reports all ordinary dividend income, return-of-capital payments, capital gain distributions, partial liquidations and short-term capital gain distributions paid by tax-exempt mutual funds.

Why do the December statement and 1099-DIV totals differ?

There are three reasons why the total on your Form 1099-DIV may differ from your December statement totals. Any or all of the following may contribute to the discrepancy:

- 1. Certain mutual funds and REITs may reclassify part or all of the distributions made. The reclassifications often occur after year end and are not recorded on the December statement.
- 2. Some mutual funds and REITs are considered constructive receipt payers. Their dividends will have a record date in 2008, but are payable in January 2009. Even though these dividends are not recorded on your December statement, they are reportable in 2008.

How are capital gain distributions reported?

The 2008 Form 1099-DIV reports dividend distributions separately by capital gain types. The detailed income statement that is enclosed with your 2008 Consolidated Form 1099 categorizes the type of income received for each security distribution. We suggest that you consult with your tax advisor or use the 2008 IRS Instructions for Schedule D (Form 1040), Capital Gains and Losses, and Publication 550, Investment Income and Expenses, to assist you in filing your Form 1040 return.

How is alternative minimum tax reported?

A percentage of the income generated from mutual funds that include municipal bond funds may be subject to the alternative minimum tax (AMT). As required by recent tax law changes, income subject to AMT is reported on Form 1099-INT, line 9, when available. We suggest that you discuss your tax reporting questions with a qualified tax advisor.

If you did not receive reportable dividend income in 2008 "NO REPORTABLE 2008 FORM 1099-DIV INCOME" will appear on your 1099.

Form 1099-B reports both gross proceeds and changes in corporate control and capital structure, net of commissions, on a trade or effective date basis. Each transaction listed on Form 1099-B includes the trade date, brief security description, CUSIP reference number, total amount of money received from the transaction, federal income tax (TEFRA) withheld on settlement date, if applicable, and quantity. Additionally, changes in control or changes in capital structure transactions will include the corporation's name, address and EIN number, class type of the exchange and whether or not you can report the loss. The column to the right of each transaction denotes the source of revenue as shown here:

Adjustment	Foreign transactions converted to US dollars; corrections of previous 1099-B entries
Cancel
Cash-in-Lieu	Greater than $20
Merger
No Code	Sale
PRN Paydown	Principal paydown
Redemption
Short Sale
Tender	For any stock or debt obligation

Any sale with a 2008 trade date settling in January 2009 will be recorded on the 2008 Form 1099-B. If federal income tax (TEFRA) was withheld, it is deducted on settlement date and will not be reported until 2009. Proceeds from Treasury bills sold before redemption are reported on Form 1099-B. Exchanges involving MIDS, QUIDS, mutual funds, etc. are reported at fair market value on the date the new security commences trading. Consult with your tax advisor to analyze the federal, state and local tax consequences on these securities.

Accrued interest earned as part of the gross proceeds on a bond sale is reported separately on Form 1099-INT based on settlement date. Principal payment for mortgage- and asset-backed securities is reported based on effective date.

Proceeds required to be reported on your Capital Gain and Loss Schedule may be different than the amount reported on Form 1099-B. For example, opening short sales listed on Form 1099-B may not be taxable this year. Also, the original cost basis for obligations receiving principal paydowns and reported in 2008 must be adjusted. You are required to reconcile and explain any differences to the IRS on Form 1040, Schedule D. Additionally, you may be required to recognize a gain from the receipt of cash, stock or other property that was exchanged by the corporation's stock. However, if box 12 is checked, you cannot take a loss on your tax return based on gross proceeds from an acquisition of control or substantial change in capital structure reported in line 2.

The detailed income statement provides investment activity transactions not required to be reported on Form 1099-B by broker-dealers. It includes 2008 purchases, principal accretions and dividend reinvestments. Details for option purchases, sales and expired option transactions will be listed separately. The detailed statement will include the trade date, description, type of transaction, price, CUSIP number, amount, comment and quantity. The information for proceeds on sales will be listed only on the Consolidated Form 1099-B.

When a security is purchased or sold, you receive a trade confirmation and a monthly statement, both reflecting the cost basis. If you need a copy of your statement for transaction-specific information, please contact your AE or the introducing firm shown on the Consolidated Form 1099.

If you did not receive reportable gross proceeds income in 2008, "NO REPORTABLE 2008 FORM 1099-B TRANSACTIONS" will appear on your 1099.

* This may not be the correct figure to report on your income tax return. See instructions on the back.

Line 1. Shows the OID on the obligation for the part of the year you owned it. Report the amount in box 1 as interest income on your tax return. However, you may need to adjust this amount if you paid acquisition premium or bond premium (see IRS Publication 1212 for more information).

- 5. Description and maturity date of an individual obligation.
- 6. OID on a US Treasury obligation. Report this amount on your federal income tax return; refer to IRS Publication 1212 for any adjustments to this amount. This OID is exempt from state and local income taxes and is not included in line 1.

The OID interest reported on Form 1099-OID is based on the assumption that the debt instrument was bought on the date it was originally offered to the public at the initial offering price. OID represents the difference between the stated redemption price at maturity and the original issue price of the bond, debenture, note or other debt instrument. OID is reported as it accrues, whether or not any payments are received prior to maturity. OID is taxable over the life of the obligation and is calculated based upon the number of days during the year that you actually held the security.

If the debt instrument was not bought at original issue price, an adjustment to the amount reported on Form 1099-OID may be necessary when preparing your tax return. However, the amount reported on Form 1099-OID should be included on Schedule B of your federal income tax return and adjusted based on your cost. We recommend that you obtain a copy of IRS Publication 1212 and/or consult with your tax advisor.

Details on OID for REMIC and CMO securities are not included on the original Consolidated Form 1099; instead they will be reported on a corrected Consolidated Form 1099, mailed and postmarked no later than March 16, 2009.

If you did not receive reportable original issue discount income in 2008, "NO REPORTABLE 2008 FORM 1099-OID INCOME" will appear on your 1099.

Corrected 1099s

You may receive an amended Consolidated Form 1099 for one or more of the following reasons:

- Your mutual funds and/or REITs reclassified all or part of their distributions after December 31, 2008. Since these reclassifications occurred after the original Consolidated Form 1099 was issued, a correction was necessary.
- The mutual funds and/or REITs you own declared a dividend in the last quarter of 2008 that was not payable until January 2009.
- You owned stock in a corporation that had a change in control or a substantial change in capital structure and the corporation has reasonably determined that you may be required to report a gain from the exchange. In accordance with IRS regulations, J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp. must forward to you this information on Form 1099-B.
- You owned REMICs or CMOs. Interest relating to REMICs and CMOs is reported on an accrual basis. In accordance with IRS regulations, this information will be sent to you by March 16, 2009.
- After verifying the reporting method and actual calculations from the issuing firm, J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp. discovered a reporting error that made it necessary to issue a revised Consolidated Form 1099.
- A newly signed W-9 Form, changing the SSN or EIN reflected on the original 2008 Consolidated Form 1099, was received.

Not Reported on This 1099

- Nonreportable items, including margin interest paid by you, short accrued interest, short debit fees, purchases and principal accretions (increase in your holding of a REMIC or CMO with a Z tranche), are listed under the applicable category of the detailed income statement.
- If you received distributions directly from a corporation because securities are registered in your name, then the corporation—not J.P. Morgan Clearing Corp.—must provide you and the IRS with the applicable Form 1099.
- Master limited partnership (MLP) and limited liability company (LLC) distributions will be reported directly by the MLP/LLC on Schedule K-1.
